

Program

SydFolkFest23 takes place in Surry Hills with four venues just an easy walk from Central Station and within 250m walking distance of each other.

The main festival hub is the Gaelic Club, 1/64 Devonshire St which will host a range of concerts throughout the weekend. Right next door is Molly Malone's and their Mezzanine level is where all our participatory activities will take place.

Tom Mann Theatre, 136 Chalmers St, is a dedicated concert venue hosting a range of performances on Friday night and Saturday from 10:00am through till 10:30pm.

The Quakers' Hall, 119 Devonshire St will host intimate, up close acoustic concerts from 10:00am until 6:30pm. At 7:30pm it becomes our Dance Hall hosting the Festival Dance.

Patrons Please Note:

Disability Access – Tom Mann Theatre is a wheelchair accessible venue with a wheelchair accessible toilet. The Gaelic Club has a small number of stairs and then a lift and is not easily wheelchair accessible. Please contact us prior to attending. Quakers' Hall is accessible providing you notify us beforehand (0400 786 494).

Unfortunately Molly Malone's has stairs to the Mezzanine and is not accessible.

Sydney Folk Festival will not be providing a printed program in 2023. We have made our program information as phone friendly as possible so you can use your phone to check the website for program information including the performance times of your favourite artists.
